Ohio Gov. Rhodes Reviews Troops

Guard Training Ends

CAMP GRAYLING, MICH. — Gov. James A. Rhodes, making his farewell appearance before the Ohio National Guard as its commander in chief, Saturday thanked the Buckeye citizen-soldiers for having "saved Ohio from excessive violence" and for standing "as a bulwark against disaster."

Al Mitchell Retires from Bear

Albert R. Mitchell was honored at a farewell party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bear at the Polyhedron Lodge Monday upon his retirement from more than forty years of active business. Mitchell has been associated with Bear Archery as Executive Vice President and General Manager for the past several years.

The dinner honoring Mitchell was attended by the Bear Executive Staff and their wives. Mr. Bear presented Mr. Mitchell with a watch in gratitude for his many years of service with the Bear organization.

Mitchell was first associated with Bear Archery in 1931 when Fred Bear felt the need for a management consultant to handle the various problems concerned with the growth of the company. Mitchell at that time was manager of the Management Consultant Section of Scovell, Wellington & Co., Bear's auditing firm.

In early 1963 Mitchell was transferred to aid another S. W. and Co. client, but remained as an advisor to Bear. In 1963 he was appointed to the Bear Archery Board of Directors. When Bear asked Mitchell to come to Grayling in 1966 and assume the position of Executive Vice President, Mitchell left the Chicago area, and moved to Grayling, where he has remained ever since.

Commenting on his future plans, Mitchell stated, "After more than forty years in active business, I have decided that if Mrs. Mitchell and I are to do the things and see the places we have wanted to, we should do it while we are still healthy enough to enjoy ourselves. We fully intend to stay in the Grayling area and to live in our cabin on the river. We like it here — the people, the clean environment and the friendly atmosphere."

Attention Democrats!

A convention will be held at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, August 20, at the County Building. Please use rear entrance.

Plans Unveiled To Ban Winter Spearing In 1972 on Michigan's Inland Waters

LANSING — Michigan's Natural Resources Commission will hear plans at its August 13-14 meeting in Marquette to recommend placing a general ban on winter spearing in the state's inland waters, starting with the 1972 season.

The measure, proposed by the Department of Natural Resources, will not call for Commission action until a year from now.

It would mark a major move beyond the piecemeal approach of recent years under which spearing closures have been established over certain waters to protect game fish, notably lake trout, muskellunge, and northern pike.

In many cases, these existing spearing restrictions have been pointed at improving hook and line fishing, a consideration which figures prominently in the DNR's plans to broaden the scope of such measures in 1972.

4,000 Guardsmen knew firsthand what the retiring two-term governor was talking about. The majority are veterans of duty in recent campus and urban riots as well as natural disasters.

"You have performed your duties, often under the most dangerous and provocative conditions," the governor told the men.

A longtime loyal supporter of the National Guard, Gov. Rhodes is responsible for quadrupling the pay of guardsmen called to duty by the state for civil disturbances and natural disasters. State pay was $6 a day when he came to office in 1963, and by this spring it was increased to $25 daily.

A special presentation was made to the governor in appreciation of "outstanding support" he has rendered to the Selective Service System. It was made by Col. Thomas S. Farrell, director of the Selective Service System for Ohio, on behalf of himself and the national director, Dr. Curtis Tarr.

Col. Farrell himself also was honored. He was presented the Army Commendation Medal for his service as chief of staff and staff administrative assistant of the Emergency Operation Headquarters (EOH) of the National Guard from April 1969 through February of this year. (He lives at 906 Caniff Road, Columbus.)

Presenting the award was Major General Wilbur H. Fricke of Waynesville, commander of Emergency Operation Headquarters and in charge of the Ohio troops in training at Camp Grayling.

The Meritorious Service Medal was presented, on behalf of the President of the United States, to Brigadier General Eric H. Bridgewater Jr., deputy commander of the EOH. The Athens, Ohio, lawyer was honored for his "distinguished" service as commanding general of the Ohio Guard's 16th Engineer Brigade between February 1968 and January 1970.

A Certificate of Special Recognition was presented to Chief Warrant Officer Charles L. Seelman (169 Wetmore Avenue, Columbus) for 30 years of service to the Ohio National Guard. He (See Guard Training on page 10)

According to Crawford County Sheriff's deputies, the youth was playing in the front yard and apparently fell in the river. His body was recovered about 150 feet down stream, by his grandfather, deputies said.

The body was taken to Sorenson Funeral Home and following County Coroner Derek McEvers report, was taken to the Stacks Funeral Home in Boyne City, where funeral arrangements were incomplete at this time.

He explained that "it is the policy of this state to dispatch the Guard without hesitation in crisis situations, so that the presence of troops can prevent as well as correct disorder."

The Governor's Review marked the midpoint in the Ohio Guard's two weeks of annual summer training. Gov. Rhodes has missed only one review in his eight years as governor, and that was when bad weather two years ago kept his plane from landing.

A longtime loyal supporter of the National Guard, Gov. Rhodes is responsible for quadrupling the pay of guardsmen called to duty by the state for civil disturbances and natural disasters. State pay was $6 a day when he came to office in 1963, and by this spring it was increased to $25 daily.

Locate Gasoline Seepage in City

City Manager William Valusek has informed the Avalanche regarding a complaint the City received last week from Clyde Weiss on behalf of Tom Brown of Peninsular St. concerning a long-standing odor of gasoline in the area. Members of the Grayling Woman's Club have expressed concern about this also.

Manager Valusek called the State Fire Marshal, Traverse City, the District Health Department representative and Grayling Fire Chief Bob Golinick and all went to dig a number of holes north of the Woman's Club to investigate.

They found evidence that the soil was saturated with gasoline, and asked nearby service stations whether they might be aware of any tank leaks.

The stations and (Scheer) nearby businesses are now conducting tests, results of which will not be available until the end of this week.

RECOUNT HERE BEING DELAYED

A recount of the ballots in District Five for the office of County Board of Commissioners has been requested by Gale Hart, according to Crawford County Clerk, Leo E. Lovely.

In the August 4 primary election, Leonard Knibbs, a write-in candidate gained the nomination over Mrs. Hart who was the only one in District Five to file petitions for the office.

Lovely stated today, that at this time, he was unable to say when the recount would be held, as he is awaiting word from the state election commission, and with the difficulty in the balloting downstate, it probably would be sometime in September, he added.

Certification of election in the state is being held up until settlement of a citizen suit in Wayne County challenging a tally there, according to Robert Jorgenson of Gaylord, a state election commission representative.

Grayling Industries

In a northern community where conservation of land and the ecology of the forest is of primary importance, can industry be compatible and welcome? The answer is "yes" if it is an industry such as Grayling Industries, subsidiary of the Star Cutter Company of Farmington, Mich.

The answer is "yes" because of the enlightened management of the parent company and the subsidiary.

Norman B. Lawton, President of Star Cutter Company, believes that an industrial firm in the northern area can be compatible with forest ecology.

Richard Schlehuber, the Manager of Grayling Industries, echoes his views, and the Grayling Industries building attests to this fact.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP — Mrs. Eleanor Filley received her life membership to the American Legion Post 106 at ceremonies during the open installation of Legion officers on Saturday, Aug. 8.

Mrs. Filley was a member of the WAC during World War II. She has been a member of Legion Post 106 for 10 years and has taken an active part in the organization.

For three years she was Chaplain of Post 106, and for the past four years has been the Adjutant. Mrs. Filley is also starting her third year as 10th District Historian of the American Legion.

At present she is also a director of the 20 et 4, an honor society of women Legionnaires.

In 1969, 37 acres of land was purchased by Star Cutter 1 1/2 miles northeast of Grayling on North Down River Road in an area of unbroken forest. Today a 12,000 sq. ft. of modern design sets on this land, and it is compatible with its surroundings. Except for the actual land the building sets on, and the parking area, the forest is untouched. The area is set back from the road and screened by a natural green strip. One can drive by the Grayling Industries and not be aware of its existence.

The existence of Grayling Industries is well known by heavy manufacturing firms downstate and throughout the world, and as time goes by, Grayling Industries will be more well known because of the product that is being manufactured; having had its birth in Grayling where the community is well aware of the value of clear, clean water.

The product being manufactured by Grayling Industries is the Starclean Filtration Unit which is a centrifugal coolant clarifier. The machine is designed to remove particles from cutting oils, quenching oils, water-soluble coolants and other industrial fluids. The unit can be used with such machine tools as gun drilling machines, gear shaving machines, grinders, honing machines and other types of equipment requiring clean fluids. Starclean operates on a principle of separation of particles by centrifugal force action without the use of filters or magnets. Solids of higher specific gravity than the fluid are continuously removed. (See New Plant on page 10)

Citizen's Committees Meet

Decide Against 2 County School Merger

The Citizen's Committees and School Boards of Roscommon, Houghton Lake, St. Helen and Grayling met Monday evening, August 10, at Kirtland Community College to discuss the recommendations of the Bureau of School Services on the school merger plan.

After a great deal of discussion on the increased educational benefits to the students it was agreed by all schools that a two county district would be too large and increased educational benefits would be overshadowed by the loss of identity of not only the students but the communities as well. After this was decided Grayling left while Roscommon and Houghton Lake remained to discuss the possible merger of their two districts.

Grayling now is faced with a building program to take care of a steadily increasing student population. Recommendations of the Bureau of School Services which closely parallel the plans of the local Board of Education are as follows:

1. — Build a Senior High School to house grades 9-12 with a capacity of 850 students. This must be done immediately and the Board of Education has already started to review the building plans that were presented to the people last fall, and with some changes, will have their plans ready for a vote sometime this fall. Whatever changes are made in the original plan, the building must be able to take care of 850 students in grades 9 thru 12.

2. — Convert the old High School building to a middle school to house grades 5 thru 8.

3. — After the High School is built, the relocatable buildings that will be put up this fall to house grades 7 and 8 will be used to take care of the increased enrollment in the grades.

4. — Plans for another grade building will be started as soon as the High School is completed.

GRAYLING IS GROWING — Last year the enrollment was 1646 students in grades K thru 12. The estimated enrollment for this year is 1872. The closing of St. Mary's will account for only 121 children, leaving a school district increase of 105 students.

Divers May Have Found Griffon

By Cmdr. Richard S. Brownes

ONTARIO, CANADA — Startling evidence brought up from the murky depths of the North Channel could possibly be linked to Robert de LaSalle's ship the Griffon, which disappeared nearly three hundred years ago while enroute back to Niagara, it has been announced by Richard S. Brownes who organized an underwater search team to locate this famous wreck that lies on the reefs somewhere near Birch Island, Ontario, Canada.

"High winds and rough water kept us at a standstill during salvage operations," Richard Brownes said.

"However, we did find a wreck scattered on the bottom in the vicinity of a 'reef barrier' at the south end of the island, and we think it is the 'Griffon'," he added.

Hardware recovered from the sunken ship are ship's spikes, wood samples, and a 15 foot section of anchor chain. The ladder, will probably be the most conclusive piece of evidence relating to their claim.

Virginia Parker, director of research at U.E.C. will have items found, evaluated for age at the Marine Department, University of Penn.

"Of course our findings are too early to tell yet, but they do show promise," Miss Parker said.

Yes, a great sailing ship breaks water three hundred years ago, only to vanish during a storm. part of history in shipbuilding goes to the bottom in her timbers and now, almost three centuries later since her foundering, the efforts of six daring men, all members of the Underwater Exploration Company from Detroit have just about solved one of the most baffling puzzles relating to lost ships that have gone down in the depths of the Great Lakes.

"We reaped the wild winds of storms during salvage, and were forced to stop our underwater activity," Brownes said.

"But we do have one thing in our favor as wreck-hunters, we can wait till another time when weather permits to make a complete inspection on the vessel we found," he said.

While exploring the island, other evidence that could also be connected to the 'Griffon' was discovered, but this information will not be made public until a future date.

Plans for a return trip back to the island are already underway for next year.

This is Mary Sue. She has nice clothes and good food. I know, because sometimes I help feed and dress her.

What she doesn't have is a mother and a father. Oh, she has parents, but they're judged unfit to care for her.

Things must have been pretty bad for her at home. It took a long time to win her trust. The day she smiled was a major triumph for us all.

I'm a teen-age volunteer at a founding home operated by our church. For most of the youngsters, this is the first experience with love and kindness, good food and clean clothes. Now I realize how important is our church's mission work.

Chaotic Welfarism

Everywhere the taxpayer turns, he sees, rising on all sides, the specter of soaring government spending. Many government programs, at both the local and national level, are beyond administrative control. Schools, welfare, health care and other ostensibly worthy programs are devouring the substance of workers and producers. Yet, "social" spending programs continue to multiply, often in an attempt to alleviate the very hardships which government spending, deficit financing and inflation created in the first place.

Illustrative of the trend is a bill in the U. S. Senate which guarantees a family of four a $3,600 annual income. This one measure would cost about $20 billion annually. Measures such as this brought a stern warning from Representative Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriation Committee. He said, "... Unless some way can be found to rectify this situation, we are ... headed toward physical and economic chaos ...". A colorful but deadly serious assessment of the situation was made by a publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. in its paraphrase of a famous remark of Winston Churchill, "Never have so few owed so much to so many."

Use Your Power

This fall the nation will go to the polls, and every citizen of the United States, if he has registered to vote, will have the opportunity of making his opinion felt. Our choice of candidates and policies will shape the course of the nation. The attitude that out of millions of votes one vote doesn't count is wrong. Mayors and other city officials, councilmen and state legislators have been elected to office by a single vote. Less than one vote per precinct has meant the difference between victory and defeat in national presidential elections.

If you have an opinion, vote and voice it at election time. In the United States, the final power of political decision rests with the people, but it is a power that must be used if it is to be kept.

Type of Environment Determined By People

By Willard Bosserman
County Extension Director

I thought I would share with you my conversation with Otto Krause of Higgins Lake. We talked of environment.

The type of environment in the final analysis is determined by the citizenry. Elected officials lead the way in policy changes which affect our environment but whether these changes are put into effect or left on a shelf to collect dust will be determined to a great part on the acceptance of the people.

Also citizens play a great part in initiating improvement in their environment. To effectively maintain a desirable environment, citizens have a responsibility to let their elected officials know what they would like.

The officials have available to them, planning commissions and other governmental aids to plan an environment that the people want.

Naturally there may be as many different ideas as there are citizens. It is the job of the elected officials with their many aids to put the pieces together.

Some of the important aspects of planning for a good environment involves sound land use plans and water pollution prevention.

Both Crawford and Roscommon counties have planning groups to assist the county commissioners and township officials. Other planning assistance is available through the Economic Development Districts, state and federal agencies.

For GOP, A Tough Road Ahead

One advantage of writing a column for weekly newspapers is that you don't have to rush into print immediately after an occurrence with your interpretation of what really happened.

With a weekly deadline, you can sort of sit back, ponder and study, and then when it suits your fancy—if it ever does—you break out the typewriter and start analyzing.

One result should be that you're a bit better able to avoid the pitfalls of misinterpreting.

However, in the case of Michigan's Aug. 4 Republican primary, I'm not sure all the time in the world would help. In a word, the results were confusing.

For example, why did State Sen. Robert Huber come within an eyelash of dumping the gracious and well-financed Lenore Romney for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate?

Keep in mind that Mrs. Romney was selected as the party leaders' choice at a pre-primary series of consensus meetings peopled by all the party's top brass from all sections of the state.

Since the primary is essentially a party affair, this should have meant that Huber didn't have a chance, because the entire party would be behind their leaders' consensus candidate.

But it's obvious the entire party wasn't where it was supposed to be.

Why did Huber do so well with Republican voters, or why did Lenore do so poorly?

Was it a case of large Democratic crossovers, with a concerted opposition attempt either to embarrass the first family of Michigan Republicanism, or to nominate the weaker of the two candidates for November's go-around against the Democratic darling, Sen. Phil Hart?

Was it a resurgence of old-line conservatism, which found in the staunch Sen. Huber a new champion for an all-but-forgotten element of Michigan politics in either party?

Was it a case of the political sins of a husband being visited upon his wife? Was it a white backlash, demonstrating at the ballot box against possible forced integration in the suburbs through the federal department of Housing and Urban Development?

Was it rank-and-file retribution for the consensus method of candidate selection in the first place? Was it an anti-feminism expression? Was it merely a judgment of the relative qualifications and experience of the two candidates?

I could accept parts of all of these reasons—but all of none of them.

Whatever it was—and chances are that the Romney-Huber campaign carried elements of all these factors, and probably more—the close finish makes Lenore's chances against Hart all the more difficult in November.

In politics, people work for a cause or because they think they can win. In Lenore's case, the cause is a bit vague, and the chances of victory appear dim.

For example, the Romney campaign is going to find the good campaign workers just a bit less willing to pitch in... the well-heeled political donors a bit less anxious to invest in what appears to be a losing cause... the enthusiasm of those already aboard the Romney campaign train just a bit diluted.

For Lenore backers, it is disheartening but inevitable that the dimmer the chances of victory appear, the dimmer the actual chances become.

Turning for a moment to the Milliken-Turner primary, the showing of Turner is a bit easier to interpret. In my mind, Turner's showing was impressive; anything over 10 percent of the vote for a novice against an incumbent is impressive.

Turner's showing seems to indicate some attraction for the crusader in politics—an image of Turner held by many—plus the usual dissatisfaction with the incumbent that you'll find in most elections.

However, I would guess the vote for Turner indicates a dissatisfaction deeper than the Milliken forces had expected, and should put the Republicans on guard that the November election is going to be a real toughie.

Shell Oil Drilling In Three Counties

Shell Oil Company's activity within the State of Michigan for the week ending August 14 includes exploratory evaluation of the Niagara formation in Grand Traverse, Kalkaska and Otsego Counties.

The Grand Traverse County test, located in Section 34-26N-11W, Blair Township, was spudded on May 16. The test, Thomas No. 1-34, was drilled to a total depth of 6,315 feet by North American Drilling Company. Production casing was set at 6,033 feet. The well flowed 4,528 MCFGPD plus 6 BCPH on 32/64 inch choke. The well is presently shut in.

One Kalkaska County test, located in Section 28-27N-7W, Kalkaska Township, was spudded on July 8. The test Longfellow No. 1-28, was drilled to a total depth of 7,408 feet by Calvert-Eastern Drilling Company. Production casing was set at 7,402 feet on August 10.

A second Kalkaska County test has been staked in Section 5-27N-7W, Kalkaska Township. The test, State No. 1-5, will be drilled to a projected total depth of 7,000 feet. Calvert-Eastern was awarded the contract. The test will be drilled in the near future.

One Otsego County test, located in Section 21-30N-2W, Chester Township, was spudded on July 19. Cactus Drilling Company was awarded the contract. The test, Donovan No. 1-21, is drilling below 5,880 feet toward a projected total depth of 6,800 feet.

A second Otsego County test, State-Charlton No. 1-4, located in Section 4-31N-1W, Charlton Township, was spudded on May 25. Calvert-Eastern Drilling Company was awarded the contract. The test was drilled to a total depth of 5,270 feet and production casing set at this depth. Testing of the Niagara formation indicates oil production.

Of Mice and Maybe Men

Mice exposed to enriched environments in early life develop bigger-than-usual brains. The same may be true for human infants.

At the University of California, Dr. David Krech tested the theory with two groups of rats. One was given "the best and most expensive supervised higher education available to a young rat." This group got plenty of attention and new learning experiences. A second group was more isolated.

After two months, both groups were sacrificed. The first group had brains with a heavier and thicker cortex, a better blood supply, larger cells, and more active enzymes.

Another pair of California researchers have found that infant mice have a greater supply of synapses — bridges connecting nerve impulses — if they are handled a great deal and exposed to all sorts of stimuli such as flashing lights and noises. The effects of early stimulation exert a strong influence on the rate of future learning and the so-called higher mental activities, including memory.

Experiments with human babies also show that they learn much faster if given early stimulation and experiences. Pretty soon all parents may be able to help shape better brains for their babies.

New findings about how the amazing organs of the human body function and develop are revolutionizing our lives. Your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association does not have all the latest brain research on hand. But they do have important information about another remarkable organ, the lungs, and how they function. Get the facts from them.

MEA Looks For Assistance To School Districts

East Lansing—Terry E. Herndon, Executive Secretary of the Michigan Education Association, announced Thursday that his organization would pursue immediate legislative assistance for school districts caught in a surprise budget squeeze as a result of the recent State Supreme Court decision on free textbooks and instructional materials.

Herndon indicated that MEA would cooperate with the Department of Education, the Michigan School Boards Association, and others with an interest in school problems.

He noted that there was considerable urgency in some school districts, such as Lansing, where the newly required expenditures now fall on top of a surprising millage defeat in Tuesday's election.

"While we can heartily support the findings of the Supreme Court," Herndon said, "the timing of the decision was somewhat unfortunate. Most school districts had already pretty well established budget revenue and expenses for the coming year. Now this new, unexpected spending requirement will force drastic changes for some."

"School district resources just aren't that good," Herndon concluded, "reserves for unexpected needs are pretty much nonexistent today."

Love Letters

By Jim Fitzgerald

Every morning at 5 a.m., comedian Red Skelton gets out of bed and writes a letter to his wife.

They live in the same house. They probably even sleep together, just like us common folks. But Red still writes her mushy letter every day. He probably has his own mailman and a stamp machine beside the bed.

Skelton calls the daily messages "Letters to Little Red." (He's Big Red, get it). He says the letters are "his thoughts and ideas." They can include a short story or a musical selection.

Cynics may laugh at Big Red. Or sympathize with Little Red who is probably way behind in answering her mail.

But there is no denying that Big Red is a romantic guy. And there is no denying that women like to be romanced. Don't knock it if you haven't tried it. So I sat up on the edge of the bed at 5 a.m. the other day and wrote.

Dear Little Fitz:

Yawn. Red Skelton must go to bed earlier than I do. And I'll bet he doesn't have the trouble finding a pencil that I did. I finally found this stub in a paste jar which will be my excuse if this letter turns out sticky (ha ha, Honey). And I hope you don't mind my writing on this pillow case. The only paper in the house is in the bathroom but I couldn't use that because there's a funny little man in there, squeezing it (ha ha, Honey).

Well anyway, Honey, you're probably surprised to be hearing from me like this. But I wanted to give you my thoughts and ideas. I'd even write a musical selection but I don't know how to write music. I'd hum it but that would probably wake you up and you would think I was just getting home, instead of getting up to write you a love letter, and I don't need anymore of that kind of trouble (ha ha, Honey).

The weather outside is nice. You can hear the birds chirp at 5 a.m. which is probably because no one is mowing his lawn yet. There are three socks and one shoe on the floor on my side of the bed. I just looked in the dresser mirror to see how I look at 5 a.m. But all I saw was that I don't wear pajama bottoms. I forgot that a husband can never see his face in his bedroom mirror unless he is a midget or is married to a basketball player.

Do you know I've killed 16 mosquitos in this bedroom this summer? I just counted the spots where I smashed them against the walls. And did you know you have 42 shoe boxes and 38 of them are on my side of the closet? I'll bet I'm the only man in town who has to hang his pants on a tie rack (ha ha, Honey).

I just went to take a peek at the children. They aren't home. Every night that man on TV says "It's 11 p.m., do you know where your children are?" I don't even know at 5 a.m.

The weather outside is . . . I guess I already said that. I'd certainly like to know what Big Red Skelton finds to write about every morning. Maybe he tells what he dreamed about that night.

Last night I dreamed I loved you. Now I'm awake, at 5 a.m., and I still do. And I can reach out and touch you. Let Big Red Skelton write letters. He is a big clown.

—Big Fitz

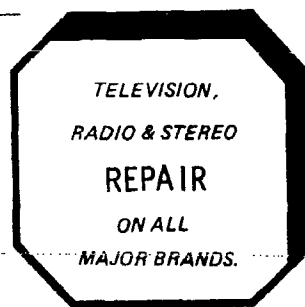

Executive Says Listen to Youth

Businessmen can learn to bridge the communication gap with young people, according to Robert G. Welch, president of the Steel Service Center Institute. In a recent statement he said:

"The American businessman must learn to listen to American youth. He should make an effort to bring young people into the mainstream of the economy. He must show his willingness to accept new ideas and concepts. He must learn to communicate across the generation gap. Those of us who are managers realize that a manager is a person who makes things happen by design. We are preparing to manage and work with a new generation, and it is different, with new ideas. What these people are really looking for is an opportunity to exercise their creativity and individuality."

Little League

By Harry Miller

Moose Lodge wins local Little League Championship.

The title wasn't decided until the last day of the season.

At the beginning of the week the Legion team needed two victories over the Moose to win the championship. The chips were down and the determined Legion team blasted the Moose 8-4. Brady pitched well behind lousy hitting by his teammates. Then came the last and deciding game of the season. Both teams were tense, the managers were uneasy. Allen Johnston on the mound for the Legion and Scott McClain pitching for the Moose. It appeared the Legion was on their way to victory scoring 6 runs in the first two innings. But the Moose playing like true champions came back and scored 11 runs in the final inning and won the championship 11-6. Congratulations to the Moose Team and to the manager Cy Wakeley and coach Jerry Larson.

Details of teams will be in next weeks paper. Plans are being made for a Little League banquet next week at the American Legion Building, August 28, at 6:30 p.m. All teams, both Major and Minor League, parents, and other interested fans are welcome. This will be a pot luck meal. Please bring a dish or two to pass and please bring your own place setting.

Bindschatel - Gauthier Speak Vows

Before an altar decorated with pink glads and white mums, Mary Jo Bindschattel, daughter of Mrs. Jesse Skinner of Frederic and Jan E. Gauthier, son of Harvey Gauthier, Sr. of Lovells were united in marriage. The First Baptist Church of Frederic was the scene of the ceremony on Saturday, July 25, at 7 o'clock in the evening. Rev. C. F. Olin performed the marriage ceremony before some 150 guests.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, L. Roger Bindschattel of Flint. Rebecca LaRose of Flint presided at the organ and Johanna Bindschattel of Flint sang "The Lord's Prayer".

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown of chantilly lace over white slipper satin with a softly gathered skirt, princess waist, and a scoop neckline. It featured full gathered sleeves with button cuffs and button trim on the front of the gown. She wore a matching bow headpiece with floor length illusion veiling and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

Maid of honor was Janet Canfield and bridesmaids were Mrs. Noreen Harmer and Cheryl Bindschattel of Clio. They wore gowns of navy blue dotted swiss with empire waists, A-line skirts, scoop necklines, and full gathered sleeves. They wore white net headpieces with dotted swiss bows to match their gowns and carried colonial style bouquets of pink carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

Dale Gauthier served as his brother's best man and Michael Harmer and Douglas Bindschattel were groomsmen.

Following the ceremony a buffet dinner was served to the guests at the Frederic Town Hall. Navy blue and white color scheme was carried throughout.

For her wedding trip to the Upper Peninsula, the new Mrs. Gauthier chose a brown and white suit with white accessories. They are now making their home at 903 Ottawa in Grayling.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Skinner chose a beige knit dress with brown accessories.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Grayling High School. The groom graduated from Frederic High School in 1966 and served two years in the U. S. Army.

Out of town guests were from Flint, Munising, Gaylord, Detroit, Roscommon, Clio, Fenton, Lansing, and Byron.

Letters To The Editor

Wednesday, Aug. 12

To the Editor:

Dear Sir:

I don't know if you print letters like this in your paper but, I just must try to tell people how my husband and I feel about your local hospital.

We were on vacation when my husband was stricken with a heart attack. He has been at the Grayling hospital for almost six weeks.

We can't begin to give enough praise to the people that work in that hospital! Every aide, nurse or helper goes out of their way to assist. They drop in for brief visits on their reliefs, sometimes even on their days off. They are always willing to do a favor or some special little surprise for their patients and always with a smile. The doctors are probably some of the best in the country.

If anyone has ever spent time in a big city hospital, they know what a difference there is in the people. They have given my husband such good care. I could never fully express our gratitude.

We just wondered if the people up here know how lucky they are to have the Grayling Mercy Hospital!

Thank you Sincerely,
Mrs. Adair George

Lee J. Smits, Columnist, Outdoor Writer to Retire This Month

By James A. O. Crowe
 Detroit News Outdoors Editor

Lumberman, reporter, columnist, editorial writer, publicist, market hunter, radio commentator, lecturer, teacher, novelist, freelance writer, conservationist, devoted outdoor sportsman and raconteur.

All these words and many more describe the legendary career of Lee J. Smits, a member of Michigan's first conservation commission and key figure in the founding of the National Wildlife Federation.

Now the people at Michigan Consolidated Gas Company and other friends are throwing a party later this month for Lee, because, at 53, they tell me he is retiring.

This is like trying to get me to believe that the Great Lakes have dried up. It seemed that Lee's working days, which started in the lumber camps along the Sturgeon River before the turn of the century, would never end.

Since those far-off days when Michigan was young, Lee has been credited with doing more to spread the gospel of good conservation in the state than anyone living.

His roots are deeply planted in his native state. His grandfather came to Cassopolis in the 1830's and ran a newspaper there for 50 years. Lee was born there on March 21, 1887.

An early devotee of the outdoor life, he tells of catching 3 1/2 brook trout as a boy in the streams around Jackson where his father, a Congregationalist minister held a long pastorate.

After high school, he worked for a while as a shanty boy in the lumber camps, and he is still telling the often raucous stories of those rip-roaring days.

He tried Olivet College for a while, but his higher education ended when the college president caught him coming out of a beer garden in town in his freshman year.

"That must have been around 1904," says Lee, who has never been known to have been pinned down on any exact dates or precise details of his life.

He arrived in Detroit some time later, and found the true love of his life — newspapering. He was a reporter, columnist, editorial writer and even, briefly, editor for the old Detroit Journal, Detroit News and Detroit Times.

He was outdoors editor of the Times in 1927 when then Gov. Fred W. Green appointed him to the newly-created Michigan Conservation Commission, on which he served until 1931. It was in here somewhere that he left for Washington for a while to serve as publicity director of the National Wildlife Federation, then being formed as the major national voice of organized sportsmen.

In between and during all this, he wrote one novel, "The Spring Flight," a textbook on conservation and innumerable stories and articles for magazines.

He worked briefly on many newspapers outside Detroit, from Marquette to New York, and never let any of his jobs interfere with hunting and fishing trips.

Lee settled down a little in 1940 when he returned to Detroit to become a radio newscaster, first on WWJ-The Detroit News and then, under gas company sponsorship, on WXYZ for 15 years. Since 1956, he has been a "special representative" for the company, which meant he made up to 200 lectures and personal appearances a year.

In recent years, Lee has also been writing an outdoors column which the company supplied without charge to weekly and small daily newspapers in Michigan as a public relations gesture.

Now Lee is setting up his own little syndicate to sell the column to the same papers and any others who will buy.

I told you I couldn't believe his career is over.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor
 Dear Whitey:

May I use this means to make the following comments?

1. The voters of the city are to be commended for their passing the bond issue question. On behalf of the City Council may I say thanks to you for leading the way in the fight against pollution and proving that our Famed AuSable merits our concern and will receive the protection it needs.

2. Thanks to George Bielski Sr. for his comments on the questions that were to be voted on in the August 4 election.

3. Thanks to Name Withheld for his comments on the zoning board of appeals meeting. I agree that if we let "George do it", he will, but not always to our liking or the best interest of the community.

4. Thanks to W. O. Hildebrand for his comments and clarification of the proposed office complex.

5. The fact remains that the tax base of the city hasn't improved appreciably in the past few years. The city provides services which benefit many more people than just the city residents. It is interesting that some 22.85% of the total land of the city is tax exempt. Most of this land requires services and provides benefits for the whole county and indeed in some instances several counties. So it seems to me that we can ill afford to turn our backs on these projects which would do so much to cure our ills, and most of all would provide the one thing that any community needs to survive and that is jobs.

I could go on but I think that with the articles in the last couple of editions of the Avalanche and my comments, the point is rather well made.

Sincerely,
 Derek McEvers
 P.S. City Council meets the 2nd and last Monday of each month and the door is always open.

Steady Progress In Teachers Negotiations

Since the passage of the state aid bill, teacher negotiations have generally made steady progress in this part of the state, according to Maurine Wyatt, MEA Area Director. Negotiations have been completed in Alcona, Atlanta, Boyne Falls, Central Lake, COOR Intermediate District, Grayling, Ellsworth, Gaylord, Harbor Springs, Inland Lakes, Johannesburg, Mackinaw City, and Pellston.

Alpena, Cheboygan, and Rogers City are utilizing the mediation services of the Michigan Employment Relations Commission, while Alanson Fairview, Hillman, Onaway, Petoskey, Posen, and Twin Valley (Boyne City and East Jordan) are regularly scheduling contract negotiation sessions, with Petoskey apparently close to settlement.

With the passage of operational millage in Mio, the Association hopes to resume negotiations as soon as possible.

At this time, Mrs. Wyatt reports, only Alpena appears to be at a serious impasse in negotiations.

CAN AGREES

The meeting for July was held at the home of Barbara Wakeley, Tuesday the 28th. Tanya Peltto presented the lesson on "Drug Abuse", and had a film strip to show for demonstration.

The members and four guests present were very pleased at the information presented to them. More community interest on drugs is needed.

After the lesson and film the group had refreshments in Barb's back yard under a beautiful old oak tree. Barb made hot fudge cream puffs that were really great.

The September "Kick Off" for home extension will be the 8th at Higgins Lake School of Conservation. Any ladies interested in learning home extension and a fun afternoon out contact chairman, Gwen Johnson, 348-9503 or Barbara Wakeley, 348-8051.

See you in September?

LANSING — Appointment of Herbert E. Johnson as Superintendent of the Department of Natural Resources' Conservation School at Higgins Lake was announced today by William J. Mullendore, Chief of the Information and Education Division.

Johnson, 50, succeeds Charles J. Guenther, who was recently promoted to the position of Executive Assistant to DNR Director Ralph A. MacMullan. The appointment, which was made provisionally and is subject to confirmation by Civil Service examination, is effective August 16.

A DNR employee since 1948, Johnson was born in Youngstown, Ohio. He holds a bachelor of science degree in biology and geology from Muskingum College and a master of forestry degree from Michigan State University.

During his career with the Department he has held a variety of positions with the Game and Research and Development Division. Most recently he has been in charge of deer nutrition experimental studies at the Houghton Lake Research Station.

He served as a Navy fighter and dive bomber pilot in World War II. He and his wife, Lois, have three children.

Also announced today was the transfer of Victor G. Horvath, who has been a conservation education consultant working in southern Michigan, to the DNR's grants-in-aid section in Lansing.
